

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. THE Classed Catalogue, printed in 1805, exhibits a view of the Library as it stood at that date; the additions made to it, during the next fifteen years, are contained in a distinct Catalogue, printed in 1820, entitled, Catalogue Part Second; and those of the last six years, a period of great and rich increase, form Part Third, now presented to the Society. In both these Parts, the arrangement is Alphabetical.

There are several advantages attending occasional Catalogues of Additions. They mark distinctly the progress of the Library; they facilitate and extend the use of its various accessions; and they furnish the most satisfactory means of judging as to the degree of skill and care with which the funds for its enlargement have been applied.

The incorporation of the different Catalogues under one Alphabet, or the formation of a General Catalogue, upon some other plan, will certainly in time come to be desirable; and such an undertaking may reasonably be expected, when it shall appear to be really necessary and expedient. An opinion has been sometimes expressed, that a Catalogue Raisonnée, or Classed Catalogue, embracing the whole Library, ought already to have been compiled;—an opinion naturally enough arising from the specimen presented to the Society in 1805. There can be no doubt, that a well arranged Catalogue of that kind, is the most perfect of any; but the task of forming one, is not perhaps always viewed with due consideration, either of its difficulty, or of the conditions necessary to render its execution suitable. Many such Catalogues have been published in foreign countries, particularly in France and Germany; very few in England, and these not greatly to be commended. Indeed, it may well be questioned, whether any one has yet appeared anywhere, that could be pointed out as a perfect model, or which it would be proper implicitly to follow. Nor will this appear at all surprising to those who have reflected on the extensive and accurate views of the divisions and filiations of Knowledge, and the philological and bibliographical learning and skill, which the task in question indispensably requires. The Classed Catalogue of 1805 was highly creditable to the industry and learning of the Compiler, and eminently useful in exciting attention to the Library, then much neglected; but the Institution was far from that state of advancement to render such a work otherwise advisable; and even now, when the number of books is quintuple what it then was, and the Collection is, in one or two departments, behind none, and beyond most Scottish Libraries, it is yet so deficient in some others, and these of no mean value in the Map of Knowledge, that any attempt to apply to it the elaborate apparatus of a proper Catalogue Raisonnée, could hardly fail to be regarded as still somewhat premature.

A few of the more uncommon and valuable books purchased during the printing of this volume, but too late for insertion in their proper places, have been noted as Addenda.

ADVERTISEMENT.

THIS Part of the Catalogue comprises the Additions made to the Library since 1826, when the preceding Part was printed; and as the Catalogue Raisonnée has lately been reprinted under an Alphabetical Arrangement, the Society has now a Catalogue in that form, of the whole Collection, as it stands at the present day. The Four Parts of which this Catalogue consists will shew the state and progress of the Library at different periods, and from time to time; but with one disadvantage, that of requiring the examination of Four Alphabets, or portions of them, in order to ascertain what it contains. When, however, the name of an Author, or the Title of a Book is known, the trouble of such a search is but trifling; and, as it is intended to print a copious INDEX OF SUBJECTS, applicable to all these Alphabets, the greater inconvenience of examining entire Catalogues for the discovery of Works on particular subjects will thus be obviated. By means of this Index, which may be bound up with the Four Parts in one Volume, the principal use of a Classed Catalogue, that of indicating Works on particular subjects, will be attained. Its formation will require considerable Care and Time; but it is hoped that it will be completed in the ensuing Spring. When Printed, a Title Page for the Volume will be distributed amongst with it.
